BUILDING OF THE YEAR GOLD

The Mesa Rim Climbing Center is a 24,000-square-foot recreational facility in Reno, NV that features world-class indoor climbing walls. The articulated walls stretch to 52 feet above ground, giving climbers a true sense of verticality.

The structure's size and spatial layout create an awe-inspiring experience for everyone that enters the space, from first timers to seasoned mountain climbers. The intricate climbing walls are complemented with natural daylighting to support the expansive space in-between the giant masses, giving occupants a unique awareness of the impressive scale the building possesses.
